MAGIC TRICKS

Here's one to try on all the kids. Set up 16 checkers, half red and half black, in four rows of four. Arrange them in alternate rows, one red and one black, like they are in the picture. Then have the gang try to arrange them in rows of all black and all red by moving only two checkers. It's pretty tough—see how long it takes them.

HERE'S THE ANSWER:
Just move the two checkers marked in the picture. You'll see that makes the diagonal rows all red and all black. Try it on your crowd!

MIX TRICKS

Here's a trick everybody loves! Put 2 to 3 heaping teaspoons of BAKER'S 4-in-1 in a cup and add  $\frac{3}{4}$  cup hot milk. Then stir it. Like magic—faster'n lightning—you'll have the richest, most chocolate-y cocoa you ever tasted. And 4-in-1 makes the fastest, most luscious cold chocolate milk in the world! The directions are right on the can. Ask mom to get a big 1-pound can—she knows it makes milk more fun to drink and gives you lots more playing energy!

TALKS ABOUT... "The HOLIDAY SPIRIT!"

WHY THE BUFFALO ROAMS

PAT PARROT, Roscoe Raccoon and Sammy Squirrel, tree-dwellers all, were seated on Pat's tree-limb. Roscoe and Sammy had dropped in, hoping that Pat might be in a talkative mood, and tell them a story. They had been there an hour, but Pat hadn't opened his mouth, except to say "excuse me" whenever he yawned, which was often.

"Well," said Sammy, finally. "I guess I'll be running along home."

"Me too," said Roscoe.

"No place like home," said Pat, breaking his silence.

Roscoe and Sammy looked quickly at Pat to see if he was ribbing them, but all they saw was Pat's big eyes staring blankly at them. Suddenly, there was a great rustle of leaves and branches below. An enormous pair of horns came into sight, and then the massive chest and body of a buffalo. All three looked down in surprise at this stranger to their part of the woods.

"Hello, how are you, Mr. Buffalo?" shouted Roscoe.

"The name is Bill," said the stranger. "Bill Buffalo. And it isn't a question of how. It's a question of where and which. Where is Texas, and which way do I go to get there?"

"It's that way," said Sammy, pointing North.

"It's that way," said Roscoe, pointing West.

"It's that way," said Pat pointing East.

"True," said Bill Buffalo. "No matter which way you point, except South, you're bound to hit it. It's an awfully big place."

"How come you're so far from home?" asked Sammy.

"Well-er-uh," said Bill Buffalo. "I'd rather not say. I'm sort of roaming around now."

"Why is it," said Sammy, "that . . ."

"Buffaloes roam?" finished Roscoe.

"It's very simple," said Pat, starting on a story without realizing it. "but we have to go back a couple of million years to know the reason.

"Bill's great-great-ancestor, Buck, was the first buffalo to go roaming. At that time, buffaloes were stay-at-homes. They never strayed more than a few hundred feet from the spot where they were born. But what a difference between the buffaloes of that time, and the ones today! They were spindly-legged little creatures, narrow-chested, and afraid of their own shadows. That's why they never went far from home. The outside world seemed too dangerous.

"There was one outstanding thing about Buck. He was a little bigger, a little braver, and handsomer than any of the other buffaloes. And one day, a strange thing happened to him on account of these very qualities.

"Remember that this was millions of years ago, in what was called the Stone Age. Men of that period used only stone tools, because that was all they had. One of these men happened to see the handsome but tiny Buck Buffalo one day. He went up to Buck, and taking him by the horns, yanked him into a cave.

"Buck was a little angry at first, but the man patted him, gave him something sweet to eat. While Buck was chomping away at this delicious food, the man set to work. He carved a picture of Buck Buffalo on the wall with his stone hammer and chisel. Hardly had Buck finished the lumps of sugar, when the man was through, and went away. Buck looked at the picture of himself on the wall, and was very proud.

"The next day Buck started to search for the man, and the next day, and the days that followed. He wanted some more of that sugar candy, and above all, he wanted his picture taken again.

"And for the rest of his life, although Buck travelled up and down the whole United States, he never saw that Stone Age Man again. And ever since, up until a few years ago, the buffaloes—Buck's descendants—have been looking for him. Meanwhile, with all that exercise, fresh air and good food, the buffalo has become the wonderful, strong and handsome creature that he is today.

"Many years ago, the buffaloes stopped roaming. They found the man they had been looking for, for millions of years. Or at least, someone just as good. He took a buffalo's picture, and put it on the five-cent piece—it became the famous Buffalo Nickel," concluded Pat Parrot.

"But," asked Sammy Squirrel. "How about Bill Buffalo here? He's still roaming, isn't he?"

"Oh, no I'm not," said Bill Buffalo. "I made a mistake, and escaped from a Zoo in Texas. And I'm homesick."
